

Development and Construction

For over 40 years, Adler Group has been responsible for both the development and the construction of projects either in tandem or as separately hired entities. With a proven reliability and an understanding of the current marketplace, Adler Group implements practical solutions to client and architects' visions. This department employs experts with various backgrounds ranging from real estate to corporate branding, and its top executives are newly LEED certified.

Development and Construction Services Include:

- Economic and market analysis
- Assistance with land acquisition master planning
- Regional impact analysis
- Construction management and litigation support
- Construction plan evaluation and development of initial budget

Adler Group has directed the development of millions of square feet of commercial and retail projects spanning from South Florida to Ohio, for renowned brands including Starbucks Coffee Company, T-Mobile, Rolls Royce and Office Max. From pre-design through post-construction, results are achieved with efficiency and a clear focus on cost-effective strategies that protect the bottom line.

For more information, please visit www.adlergroup.com

For media inquiries, please contact Susie Gilden, 305-448-7536 or susan.gilden@rbpr.com

###

ABOUT ADLER GROUP:

Adler Group and its affiliates offer a seamless network of services designed to maximize the value and strength of the organization's real estate assets. Throughout its history, Adler Group has developed and acquired in excess of 14 million square feet of industrial, office, retail and residential real estate. Today, by means of relationships with a prestigious list of institutional and private investors and nationally recognized financial lenders, the company owns and manages an extensive real estate portfolio comprised primarily of multi-tenant industrial and office properties located in strategic markets throughout the Southeastern United States.